Washington, June 23.—Secretary Alger received a cablegram from General Shafter at Mayaguez, saying all the United States troops had been successfully landed at Daiquiri, while the vessel, the Commodore, diverted attention of the Spanish.

The Texas had one man killed to-day. Just one week after the United States troops left Teriguas, they began to disembark on Cuban soil, landing in formation at two points, so as to attack Santiago in the rear and at the side while the navy attacks from the seaboard.

Thus the military invasion of Cuba may be said to have fairly begun, for, though the United States marines were the first of the regular forces to land upon Cuban soil, their purpose after all was not invasion, but establishment of a naval base and base for cable stations, in both of which they were eminently successful.

To the regular troops was left the beginning of the formidable task of invading Cuba by land.

B., a well known traveller and explorer, will arrive here sometime next week with a party of twenty-five on an exploration trip through the north in the interests of the London Illustrated News and the Mirror of Life, two well known English publications. The party takes two years supplies and will be divided here into two expeditions. One goes by the Athabasca-Black-sage route and the other overland to the Peace and beyond, the object of both expeditions being to come out on the Pacific coast. Large and expensive cameras will be taken for the purpose of procuring views all along the journey, which together with articles descriptive of the journey will be sent to the papers referred to. Three of the party, namely Messrs Sutcliffe, De Forest and Burnside, have already arrived. THE Rev. Mr. Dyke will preach the closing sermons of his pastorate in the Methodist church next Sunday morning and evening. He expects to leave Edmonton for Birtle the latter part of next week.

SEVERAL large lots of fur are in from the north and will be put up for competition shortly. One lot was brought in by Paul Bros. from Peace river, another lot worth from $7,000 to $8,000 was brought in by Guillaume Dejarlais from Lesser Slave lake.

CORR. BUTLER and special const. McFarlane came in from the Peace river crossing last night via Lesser Slave lake and the Landing, with an Indian lunatic, Pat Cardinal. They, with their prisoner, left for Fort Saskatchewan this morning.

THE heavy rain of Monday night partly filled the cellar of the new Gallagher block and softened the masonry of the foundation to such an extent that it caved way, causing the brick walls, which had been carried to a height of about ten feet, to also fall in. Workmen are now engaged in clearing away the wreckage, prior to rebuilding it.

A. W. SPRAGUE a prominent lawyer of Revelstoke suddenly disappeared one day last week. He had been attending a police court case in the morning and after dinner took his gun and dog and started out for a walk. He has never been seen or heard of since. Strange as was his vanishment, the subsequent disappearance of his wife was even more so. On Thursday last she disappeared and could not be found. A later report says that she was found on the river bank, unconscious but alive, having apparently fallen into the river while vainly searching for her husband.

THE Calgary Herald says that J. W. Colpitts, of the Klondike Co-operative Grubstake Mining Company, comes before Magistrate Winter to-morrow on charges of alleged fraud in connection with horse and wages transactions. The proposed expedition fell through and Mr. Brenton has recovered judgment against the company for the amount of his claim for salary and damages in connection with his engagement as guide.

F. A. OSBORNE is in receipt of a letter from his father, A. D. Osborne, who left here in the spring with Wm. Latimer and J. Secord, bound for the Upper Liard overland by way of the Nelson. The letter was written on the 24th of May, and in it Mr. Osborne stated his party was then looking down on the Nelson. They had had a good trip and were following W. P. Taylor's trail and cutting it out as they went. He had left a good blazed trail behind him which was easily followed. There were a number of parties following up the trail and all were in good health and spirits, and horses.

They intended following up the blazed trail to a point above the rapids on the Liard.

JAS. SYMONS and Louis Symons, of Philadelphia, came in from the junction of the Pembina and Athabasca, on Friday. They, with J. McKenzie and Arthur Watson of Maple Creek started down the Pembina on May 23rd, and about a week later were captured and lost part of their outfit and clothing. On reaching the mouth of the Pembina the Messrs. Symons turned over their part of the outfit to their partners and floated down to the Landing on a raft. McKenzie and Watson continued on their journey to the Peace. Three parties were met on the Pembina, numbering in all 19 men. One party who were also unfortunate in being captured, were camped near the mouth of the Pembina where they were waiting gold on a bar, making about $1.50 to $2 a day. The Messrs. Symons will return home as soon as they can make the necessary arrangements.

THE RAILWAY.

The matter of the location of the station here was finally arranged between the council and the representatives of the new company now holding the charter, at a meeting held on Monday afternoon.

The council, on behalf of the town, agreed to the request of the company for the privilege of erecting a temporary station instead of the more expensive one called for by the agreement with Mr. Pugsley. They were also granted the privilege of selecting a site for the temporary station any place within the following limits: On the east, the eastern boundary of River Lot 14; on the north 11th street, 6th street and a line drawn from 6th street westerly parallel to the northern boundary of the town on the H. B. Co. reserve to a point directly opposite 9th street; on the west a line drawn from the last mentioned point down 9th street to the river. Literally, the land embraced in this block is that lying between the town and the Hudson's Bay Company fort, the race track and the land lying east thereof to the eastern boundary of River Lot 14. The company was also granted the free right of way over all roads in the municipality necessary to be traversed in getting to or from the station, and it was decided that the freight and passenger rates over the projected extension should be the same as the average rates then in force over the same distance on the C. & E. In granting these privileges the council stipulated: (1) That a permanent station as called for by the original agreement with Mr. Pugsley, namely one built of brick or stone at a cost of not less than $5,000, should be erected within two years after the completion of the line to Edmonton. (2) That such permanent station should be erected north of Victoria avenue, the street on which the land office is situated, provided, that, should the council so desire, the site of the temporary station could be selected by them as the site for the permanent station.

These alterations to the original agreement, together with the changes referred to in last issue as to the extension of time for carrying the railway beyond Edmonton, and the location of all the company's machine shops, were embodied in a new agreement which will be ratified by the council and forwarded to the representatives of the company for signature.

On Tuesday morning a reply was received by the mayor to his telegram to the Hudson's Bay Company, at Winnipeg, in which he asked for a grant of 50 acres for station site on the race track and price of 100 acres adjoining. The reply of the company through its commissioner, was: Send drawing and description of piece of property you refer to and I will put it before our directors for their consideration. This telegram was telegraphed back to Red Deer to catch Messrs. McAvity and Blair, who left on Tuesday's train, and they will interview the H. B. Co. when passing through Winnipeg.

Mr. McAvity stated that it was the intention of the syndicate to push the extension of the line across the river with all possible speed. They would send their engineer up in August or September to arrange for having the construction of the line started so as to be able to build across the bridge immediately upon the completion of that structure.

FROM NELSON RIVER.

J. L. Robertson arrived from Peace river crossing on Monday afternoon, ten days out, coming by way of Lesser Slave lake and Athabasca Landing. From the lake he was accompanied most of the way by Messrs. Desjarlais and Ferguson, traders of Slave lake, H. F. Davis, trader, of Vermillion, Mr. Lawrence, of Vermillion, and Mr. Harris, of Harris & Geddes, who are driving a band of 49 head of cattle to the Yukon. Mr. Robertson went to Peace River Landing last fall. Came out in the winter and returned last March, guiding Messrs. Pugh, Lawson & Ainsworth. The party went down the Peace this spring in boats intending to go up the Liard. They left Edmonton on March 3rd, and went by way of Athabasca Landing and Slave lake. They had nine horses hauling traieaux with runners six inches wide, loaded with 900 pounds each, and a train of dogs loaded with 412 lbs. besides blankets. They reached Peace river crossing on March 19th without mishap or trouble.

A large number of parties had started across country from Peace River crossing to Nelson river by way of White Mud, Battle and Hay rivers, following the course taken by W. Taylor. They engaged an Indian guide named Henry Thomas who had been recommended by Brick Bros. The parties began to leave the crossing about May 1st. Mr. Robertson does not know the names of all of them, but they included two French parties who were the first to pull out; Messrs. Geddes & Harris, who started next with their cattle; Pat Curran's party; the Philadelphia or 22 outfit; a German party from Chicago; a party from Goderich, Ont.; a part of Dr. Bennett's party from Chicago; a party of seven from Colorado; Messrs. A. D. Osborne, J. L. Secord, and W. Latimer, of Edmonton. Another party started about May 15th and these parties were all 20 miles beyond Hay river and within sight of the Rocky Mountains beyond, on May 25th. Mr. Robertson is confident that all are now on the Liard river. He estimated that the Nelson was not more than 40 miles distant. Mr. Robertson left Peace River Landing on horse back and followed the trail of these parties. He was three days reaching White Mud river through country which was mostly prairie, with a cart road to Bear lake, part of the way. The White Mud was crossed on a bridge of drift wood. Three days more to Battle river through a region of timber and prairie. The Battle river was fordable. Then four days to the point where he caught up to the other parties beyond Hay river. About 25 miles of the country between Battle and Hay rivers was rather heavily timbered and it took the parties five days to get through, all hands turning in to help to cut out a trail. They all worked together where bridging or cutting timber was necessary and were well satisfied with the progress they had made. The guide did not know the country beyond the point reached by Robertson and turned back from there. He reached Peace River crossing in nine days with saddle and pack horses. His agreement was that he would take the parties to a point within sight of the waters of the Nelson in thirty days from Peace River. Mr. Robertson says that the trail is free from muskeg, the country is not rugged and there are no serious impediments to travel as far as the point mentioned. The country beyond did not appear difficult, but possibly was more heavily timbered. Once the grass started there was plenty of feed for the stock all along. None of the cattle had been lost and all had gained in flesh. Some of the horses were thin when they left the Peace and consequently there were losses, but not serious ones. When a horse played out instead of being left behind to recruit up and perhaps be useful to the next man who came along, he was shot. With the passage of such a large outfit over the trail it is of course well marked and Mr. Robertson says no one need experience any difficulty in following it. On the way out sufficient moose were killed to furnish fresh meat for the party. The guide killed most of them, but one of the party killed two.

Peace river was clear of ice on April 25th. Mr. Robertson gathered strawberries on the banks of the Peace fifteen miles above the crossing before he left. The acreage of crop on Peace river was largely increased this year, but there had been no rain up to the time he left. The Peace was very high this spring.

Mr. Pottinger, who went to Peace River last fall with Mr. Robertson, went down the Peace with Messrs. Pugh, Lawson and Ainsworth. Mr. Bell, of Rat Portage, and two friends, who went to Peace river in the fall, wintered at Vermilion and went down the river in the spring accompanied by W. Coe, of Edmonton, who went out with H. F. Davis last year.

Mr. Robertson washed some gold at the crossing of Peace river this spring, but the pay was not large enough to be an inducement. He will return in July.

DAWSON.

G. H. V. Bulyea, of Qu'Appelle, who is in Dawson as a representative of the Territorial government, writes as follows: "The town is fairly orderly, although all the hangers-on of a mining town are here. They have, however, a magnified awe of Canadian justice, and the American anarchists on his own side of the line is held in check here without trouble. I have never seen a man carrying a pistol or a knife, nor have I heard an angry word since I arrived here. Times appear to be lively, but a boom is expected as soon as the gold is washed up. This will be finished about the middle of June, and I candidly think that the world will be surprised at the gold output of Dawson region. Eldorado and Bonanza are the creeks that are extensively worked, but as other creeks are prospected they are turning out A. I. Dominion Creek, discovered last year, is considered by local men to be as valuable as any of the old creeks, and claims are held very nearly as high. Sulphur, All Gold and a dozen others are splendid prospects and very valuable. In the bench claims, gold is found in chunks away up in the top of the mountain, a fact that surprises the knowing mineralogist. Gold is found in the most unlikely places. There is plenty of food now at Dawson. The scarcity arose because a certain clique endeavored to corner the food supply and trade on the needs of their fellows. They succeeded for a time, but the supply was bigger than the demand, and now you can buy provisions very reasonably.

LEITER'S BIG BUBBLE.

Appended is a short history of the progress of the celebrated corner in May wheat, which collapsed on Monday. Mr. Leiter's income during the past few months has also been computed and the figures show how a vast fortune was amassed by the lucky speculator before the bubble burst:

First wheat bought April 2, 1897, at 72½¢.
Cheapest purchase June 18, 1897, at 64½¢.
Price advanced to $1.85 May 10, 1898.
Largest interest at any one time, $5,000,000 bushels.
Total of wheat exported and sold, 25,000,000.
Largest profit on any one account, 85¢ per bushel.
Total profit, approximately, $4,500,000.
Leiter's average monthly profit, $321,400.
His daily average profit for fourteen months, $10,710.
He has made $446 each hour, or about $7.50 per minute.
June 13, compelled to liquidate.

WHO SUFFER FROM WEAKNESS, NERVOUSNESS AND DYSPEPSIA

Should Use Paine's Celery Compound.

Paine's Celery Compound is Your Only Hope.

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.,
Gentlemen:—I feel it my duty to let the public know what Paine's Celery Compound did for me, and trust it will be a benefit to other sufferers.
I was much reduced in flesh and in a thoroughly broken-down condition, resulting from dyspepsia and nervousness. I was recommended to try the Compound; I did so, and three bottles have made me a different woman.
Previous to taking your Compound, I had taken medicine from some of the best doctors in the city, but with no good results. Therefore I have every reason to be thankful for Paine's Celery Compound, and take great pleasure in recommending it to others.
Yours truly,

MISS CHARBONNEAU.

TO NELSON RIVER AND BACK.

F. E. Banks, of the Fugard party, which left Edmonton for Peace River in the latter end of last November, returned to town on Friday last after a most eventful trip. Mr. Banks and his partner, A. I. Dornay, had reached a point on Nelson river a couple of days travel below the Forks when their boat was upset at the foot of a rapid and they lost so much of their supplies that they were compelled to return. The Fugard party numbered thirty men and were chiefly from Los Angeles, California. They travelled with horses and flat sleighs and took the trail by way of Fort Assiniboine. The trail had not been cut out from the Athabasca to Slave lake when they started. However, they got through the woods to Swan river, and then followed Swan river down to Slave lake and the shore of the lake to the H. B. Post. The party were very greatly delayed in reaching Swan river over the Swan hills, partly because of the lack of a trail, but principally Mr. Banks thinks because the party was too large, and was therefore unwieldy in a difficult country. Where the delay occurred feed was scarce and there the horses suffered most. They were only four days in following Swan river to Slave lake and four days more to Slave lake post. Messrs. Banks and Dornay delayed behind the main party when they reached open country near Slave lake and passed them when they were camped at Slave lake post. They reached Peace river crossing ahead of them and pushed on to Dunvegan. The main Fugard party remained at Peace river crossing, built boats and went down the Peace when the river opened. Two members, however, Messrs. Ed. Smith and F. McCandless, pushed on up Peace river on the ice, heading for the America or the Finlay.

Messrs. Banks and Dornay left Dunvegan between the 10th and 15th of February and intended to take the north trail to Fort St. John for about 100 miles and then strike northward to the Nelson river. They missed the trail, however, as it had not been much travelled for years, and had a hard time cutting their way through the moderately timbered country lying between the Clear Sky hills and the Peace River. They had no difficulty in keeping their general westerly direction as the hills became visible soon after leaving Dunvegan lying from east to west to the north of their course, while from high points the valley of the Peace could be seen to the south. At a distance of about 100 miles westward from Dunvegan they began to look for an opening in the Clear Sky hills by which they could cross to their north side, believing themselves to be near the head of the Nelson. After crossing four small streams with somewhat difficult valleys which unite to form the Clearwater, a small tributary of the Peace, they found a small prairie on the south side of the hills, behind which the timber of the hills had been burned and they determined to cross over. The hills are high, but not rugged. The top is comparatively level and is about ten miles across. The hills are thickly covered with small spruce timber, and the ground is mossy. They crossed over the hills in the burnt district and came to a small stream which flowed northward. They followed this stream northward for some miles until they were satisfied that it was a branch of the Nelson, and having come to good pasture for their horses they halted and built a boat. This was about the middle of April. There was still deep snow in the hills, but the streams to the north were open and the snow was principally gone. When they had completed their boat they loaded their supplies and started down stream, leaving their horses. The stream was small, with some difficult rapids, and they had several mishaps, but nothing very serious. The country appeared moderately level but pretty heavily timbered, poplar being intermixed with spruce on the east side. Game was plentiful. They saw many moose tracks and killed four beaver. After travelling down stream about four days, they found that it turned westward and finally southwestward. They therefore concluded that the stream was not the Nelson at all but a branch of the Pine. They found a number of tepee poles at a point on the north side, and a trail leading to the north. This they concluded must lead to the Nelson. They therefore went back by land across the bend of the stream to where they had left their horses and brought them down to where the trail left the stream. They left the boat, packed the horses and again started north. They found the trail well marked, with signs of having been used considerably the season before. The country was not rugged, but was timbered, chiefly with poplar. After travelling three days they again reached a stream flowing north, striking it on the east side. They built another boat and again, leaving their horses, started down. They went down stream three days. At first the stream was comparatively small, but a much larger stream came in from the west at about the end of the first day's journey. The stream then became about two-thirds the size of the Saskatchewan. Mr. Banks is confident that the stream upon which they started was the east branch of the Nelson and that the large river they saw coming in from the west was the west branch of Siamie Chief river. As it was the season of low water the navigation was difficult. The general direction of the river was a little west of north. The river was not in a deep valley and the country on either side did not appear rugged. The banks appeared to rise, however, as they went north. They prospected as they went along, and below the junction with the Siamie Chief river they found colors of gold. At the end of their third day's travel, after having run a small rapid, their boat grounded on a rock at the foot and upset, throwing the cargo into the water. They managed to recover about 90 pounds of flour and some bedding, but the rest of their supplies were lost. They did not lose the boat. This accident compelled them to turn back and make their very best time to Dunvegan to save themselves from starvation.

They tracked and rowed up stream, reaching the point on the East Branch where they had left their horses, in five days. They found the horses all right and doing well. They then packed across the portage to Pine river and there found the boat they had used on that stream. Leaving their horses to take care of themselves, they went down the stream, which proved to be a branch of Pine river, to the Peace. The river, as it turned to the southwest, cut through the Clear Sky hills in a valley or canon about 1,000 feet deep. In the canon it met another stream of about the same size coming from the west. To the junction of the two streams was very difficult and dangerous, and ten days were occupied in that stretch, although the distance was not great. Three days more down the Pine brought them to the Peace, and one day down the Peace to Dunvegan. Total three weeks from their wreck on the Nelson to Dunvegan.

At Dunvegan Dornay joined the Sunny South party of Los Angeles, bound for Finlay river, taking the place of Tallman, an elderly man, who desired to return. Banks came on to Edmonton in order to hear from home if possible, and make a fresh start.

While at Dunvegan Mr. Banks heard that some prospectors on Halfway river had shot two horses belonging to a band of Indians there, because the horses had been troubling them. The Indians did not retaliate actively, but at once refused to hold any communication with the white men. A committee of prospectors was formed who made partial restitution of the Indians and assured them that the like would not occur again. The men who did the shooting had got out of reach, or they would have been compelled to pay the loss.

A number of parties are at and about Fort St. John on the way to the Nelson and the Finlay, but Mr. Banks did not see any of them. The Good Hope party of 25 men are pushing their supplies up to the Finlay from St. John. Another party of 19 men went up the Peace past Dunvegan. They saw six bears on their way from the crossing. The White party are at Hudson's Hope. The Fresno party were said to be on the west branch of the Nelson at last accounts.

The spring was very dry in the Peace river district and fires were running generally. Mr. Banks is much struck with the beautiful appearance of the Peace river country, and also with the region to the north and west as a field for the prospector.

FOR HOME WORK Only the Best Goods Give Satisfaction.

Diamond Dyes, the World's Leaders, Do the Best

When you take you must use the best brand of baking powder; when making a jelly or custard pudding you must make use of the best flavoring extracts; when you sew it is economy to use the best sewing cotton; when you have home dyeing to do you should also bear in mind that your success and the safety of your materials and garments depend upon the brand of dye you employ.

When the Diamond Dyes are used you achieve marvellous successes. Your old, faded and dingy looking goods after a bath in the Diamond Dyes are made as new. The colors are always brilliant, fast, rich and full.

If you unfortunately made use of some one of the many weak, muddy and worthless dyes sold by some dealers for the sake of long profits—well, you must be prepared for cruel disappointments and losses. The Diamond Dyes save time and money, and are solid guarantees of success and good work.

This is what we are looking for. The crops need it. The streets need it, and we have every reason to hope for rain at an early date

It is not about the crops or the streets we wish to speak, but a means of saving the rainwater when it does come, and one way is to have your eave-troughing done while it is dry. We do this work as well as all other tinnings in a first-class style at reasonable prices.

We do not take back what we said about "Elephant Paints." They are unequalled.

J. L. JOHNSON & CO.

..War and Rolled Oats.

O'er earth's greatest Empire the Union Jack floats, And this proudly due to the use of Rolled Oats. While war news so thunders, one can't keep it quiet, The States battles for freedom are won with this diet.

With Great Britain, The States, and Rolled Oats in alliance To all other Nations we could bid bold defiance. No union in Europe our position could mar, If the Oats be well branded with Bruckman & Ker.

Remember Dargai and remember Findlater, Whose "Pap" was Rolled Oats from the hand of his Mater, And Hobson, the gallant, each patriot soil fills. Oh! such men are the outcome of National Mills.

Rolled Oats islands rich like the Philippines gain, And National Stuff will free Cuba from pain; Porto Rico is settled as one of wars fines, While Our Cereals, well rolled, secure Carolines.

If our brand of Rolled Oats had died been of Spain, That country would safely have guarded the Maine; Then proclaim with loud voices, and sound it afar, B. & K. National Oats will an end put to War.

Schultz, delegates from South Dakota. T. H. M. Parker, emigration agent at Duluth, Minn., accompanied the settlers from that state.

The following settlers also arrived on the same train:

H. T. Schoolcraft, wife and family, from Minnesota, settled at Wetaskiwin. They brought one car of settlers effects. T. Kirkpatrick and wife, F. Kirkpatrick, wife and children, G. Kirkpatrick, wife and children. They brought two cars of settlers effects with them from Michigan. Claud Bush, A. E. Lyons and H. M. Lyons, of Michigan; T. L. Roy, wife and family, from Three Rivers, Quebec; R. Townsend and wife, John Peters, Blenheim, Ont.; T. E. Fitzgerald, Peter Biven, Ontario; Thos. White, San Francisco, Cal.

Agent Sutter, with emigration agent Parker, and the delegates, drove through the Belmont, Poplar Lake, Beaver Hills, Agricola and Clover Bar districts. All the delegates were highly delighted with the country and its general appearance. Through the above mentioned districts the wheat is all in first-class condition. Though somewhat disappointed with the country on first arriving here, they stated that since their tour through the various districts they have greatly changed their views.

Mr. Sutter, with another party of delegates, drove down to look over the Lacombe district to-day.

ANGUS RIDGE.

On Wednesday last Mr. John McKay, trustee for Battle river school district, deserted the bachelor club, taking a life-partner to lessen the burdens of life. Miss Mand Truesdell, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Truesdell, was the lucky lady. Miss Truesdell is held in the highest estimation here by a large circle of friends. All wish Mr. and Mrs. McKay many years of happiness. Rev. German, of Hobbeams, tied the knot. Mrs. Shantz and Mrs. Nelles were the guests of Mrs. McEachren last week.

J. A. Candler, B. A., inspector, visited the Battle river school on Monday p. m. and Rix's school in the forenoon. He visited Miss Douglas' on Tuesday. We are anxiously looking for the rain. It will likely be here these items are in print.

Rev. Purdy preached an interesting and instructive sermon to a large congregation here yesterday from the text, "Wisdom is justified of her children." June 20th, '98.
